Forecast for Tuesday 15 Jun 2021

Weather: Mainly dry overnight but remaining cloudy. A dry and bright morning with some sunny intervals. Cloud will spread in from the west and thicken enough to give some light and patchy rain at times by early afternoon. Rain will become quite persistent and heavy at times for the Argyll ranges during the evening.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: 90% in the morning, tops mostly clear overnight and during the morning, reducing to 30% later as some low cloud develops associated with rainfall.

Visibility: Good visibility with far reaching views in the morning but patches of cloud will fall to around 600m by late morning becoming more broken in the afternoon, especially around western ranges, becoming extensive from 400m and above in the evening. Below the cloud visibility will be moderate or poor at times in heavy rain.
